TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The course draws on the following methodologies:
- Explanatory lectures that allow for participation
- Case Study: After Reading texts, different connotations and interpretations of technology will be analyzed, evaluated and debated. Technology and its interrelationship with culture, society and western technological development will be analyzed (idea of progress linked to technological progress).
- Role-play in five or six debates.
LEARNING OBJECTIVES OF THE SUBJECT

- Describe, analyze and debate on technology, not as a neutral force but as a powerful human activity enmeshed in humans affairs.
- Develop critical thinking skills among students by means of the analysis and argumentation of Anglosaxon philosophers, historians, writers, etc.
- Indirectly, identify and become aware of the English argumentative rhetoric and discourse and apply this discourse in order to participate in debates and discussions: express, exchange, defend or refute opinions in a convincing and appropriate way in English. Compare singularities and cultural differences.
