Apply for a place on a master's degree at the UPC.

You will receive an e-mail for administrative and application documents and then your details and the academic information.

You will have to fill in your personal degree you wish to study.

Check that you meet the official master's degrees and doctoral programmes.

A range of learning opportunities is offered at the UPC, mainly through the UPC Community, together with other institutions. You can find more information at www.upc.edu/masters.

Consult the official master's degrees and doctoral programmes.

For each master's degree you will find a link to the application.

You will have to register informing you whether you have been admitted.

Once you have been informed that you have been admitted, you must accept the place in the master's degree.

The fee applies to all master's degree students.

Once you have been informed that you have been admitted, you must accept the place in the master's degree. This fee will be deducted from the total enrolment fee when you enrol.

For more information on how to enrol, please see the details on the enrolment page at www.upc.edu/en/masters/fees-grants.

If a body that has signed an agreement with the UPC covers any medical expense during your stay in Spain, you must enquire whether their medical insurance policy will cover you in their home country.

Regarding medical insurance, note that only medical emergencies are covered in this case and not any other medical problem.

You will not be allowed to extend your stay if the duration type of visa you will not be eligible for a student card and must apply for a student visa—instead of a tourist visa—at the embassy.

2019-2020 MASTER'S DEGREES

Aerospace Engineering Field

Aerospace Engineering

2 academic years / 120 ECTS

escola.etseib@upc.edu

Requirements and criteria may be set for given master's degrees. Holders of a qualification issued by a university in a country that does not belong to the European Higher Education Area (EHEA) that qualifies the holder for admission to a university master's degree.

Research

The UPC participates in the Industrial Doctorates Plan promoted by the European Commission, which offers the possibility of starting doctoral studies following training credits as required in a master's degree course.

Training credits

The minimum training credit requirement is 300 ECTS.

Admission via a master's degree

Candidates wishing to be admitted via this route must meet the following condition:

• They must have been deemed to be equivalent to a Spanish qualification that qualifies the holder for admission to a master's degree.

• They must hold a qualification issued by a university that belongs to the European Higher Education Area (EHEA) that qualifies the holder for admission to a university master's degree.

• They must provide evidence of their qualification's homologation, whether for any purposes or within the framework of any specific requirements and criteria set for a given master's degree.

• They must provide the UPC with proof of the qualification's origin.

• They must submit the qualification to any homologation process that may be required in order to be deemed equivalent to a Spanish qualification.

• They must meet the admission requirements of the given master's degree.

• They must request to enrol in the master's degree.

Admission

Successful candidates must pay a fee of €300 to confirm admission to the master's degree. This amount will be deducted from the maximum scholastic loans available.

For further information, consult the master's degree website.
For further information, consult the master's degree website.

Enrolment fees for master's degrees range from €41.17 to €65.87 (plus IVA, if applicable), depending on the programme. These fees are valid for the whole study load of 60, 90 or 120 ECTS credits. The fees are paid in instalments (§1, §2, §3 of the statute of the University of Barcelona) and there is an additional enrolment fee for non-residents who are not EU nationals (1.5% higher). More information can be found on the master's degree website.

Apply for a place on a master's degree at the UPC

Study at the UPC

UPC master's degrees combine excellence in teaching and research staff, international recognition, flexibility, and quality. There is a wide variety of subjects to choose from: Engineering, Architecture, Sciences, Business, and Law.

You must make a decision on your final subject within the next five years and inform the UPC of your final decision. You can choose to complete your studies in one or two years.

Languages

The UPC offers a wide range of courses designed to help you adapt to life in Barcelona, including Spanish-language courses.
