

The reality is binding

The market determine goals

The technical rigging meets the demands, looking for technical solutions, it can be stated that there is continuous evolution

Development and creation teams should do the final work, appropriating technical and technological possibilities to respond to the market with final solutions

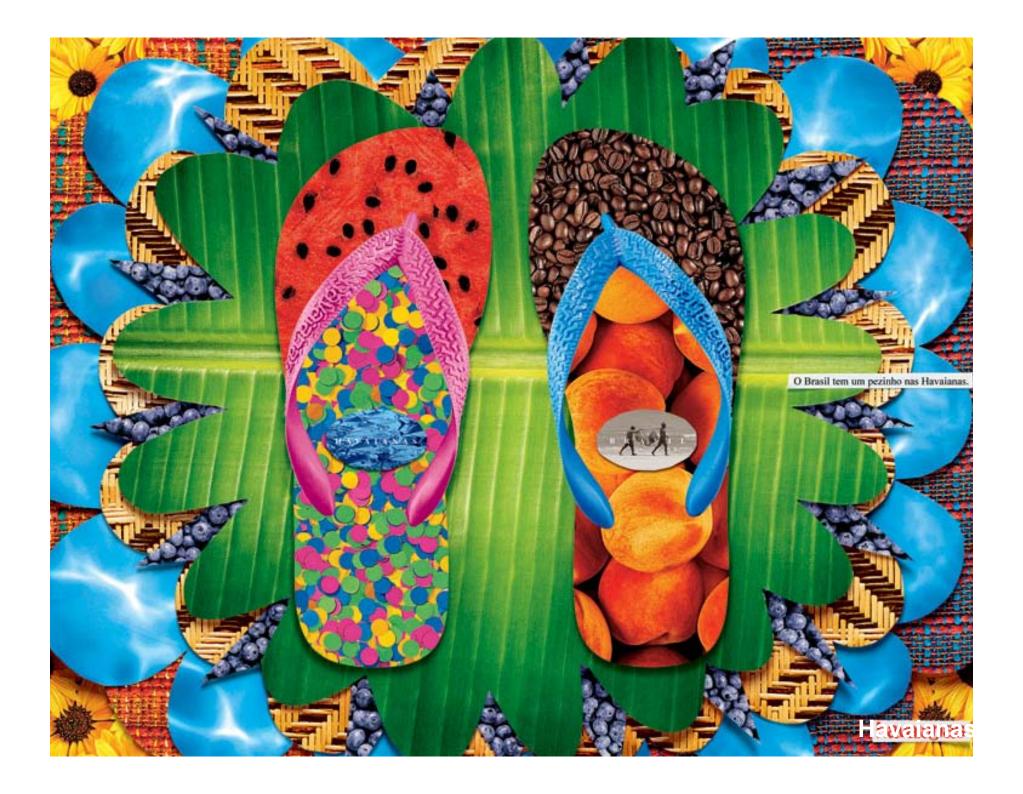

Final solutions are not only functional, but include many intangible aspects:

- Cultural relations
- Identity representations
- Meaning
- Aesthetics

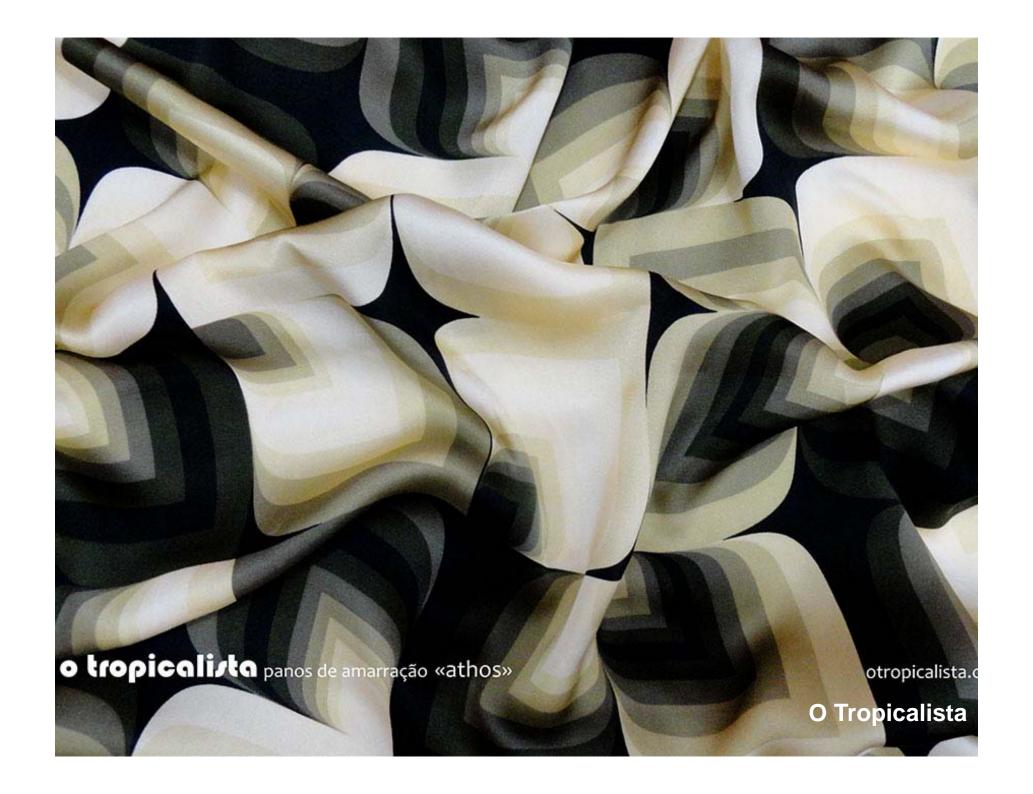

Adriana Barra

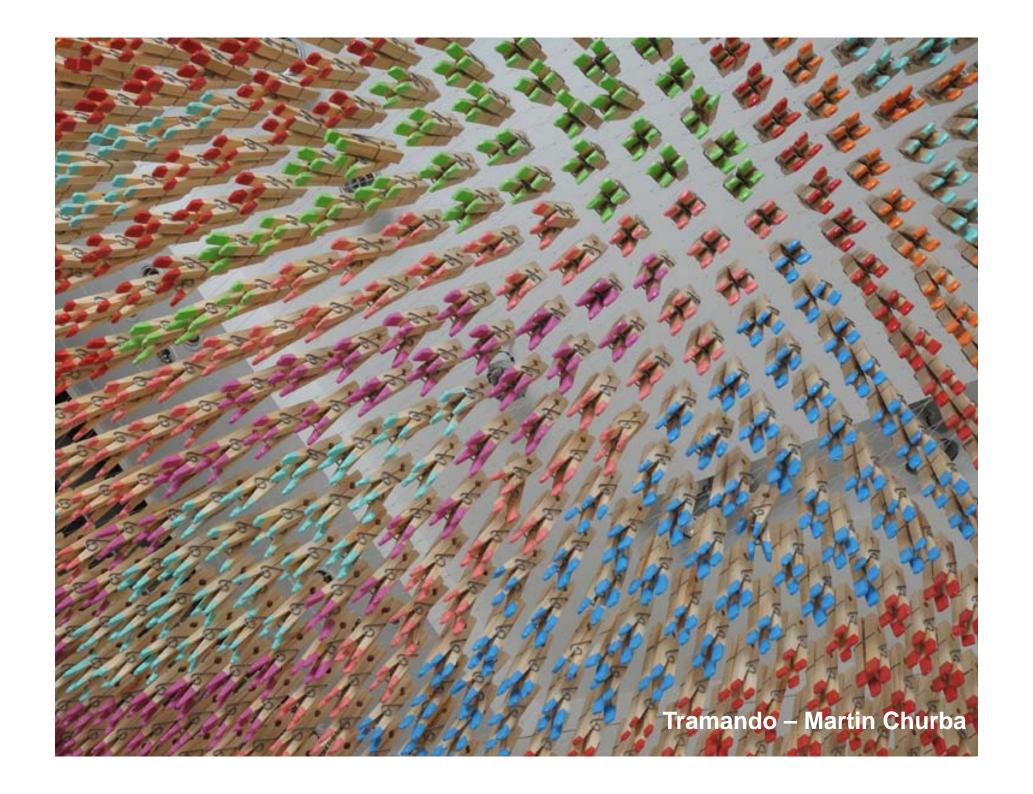

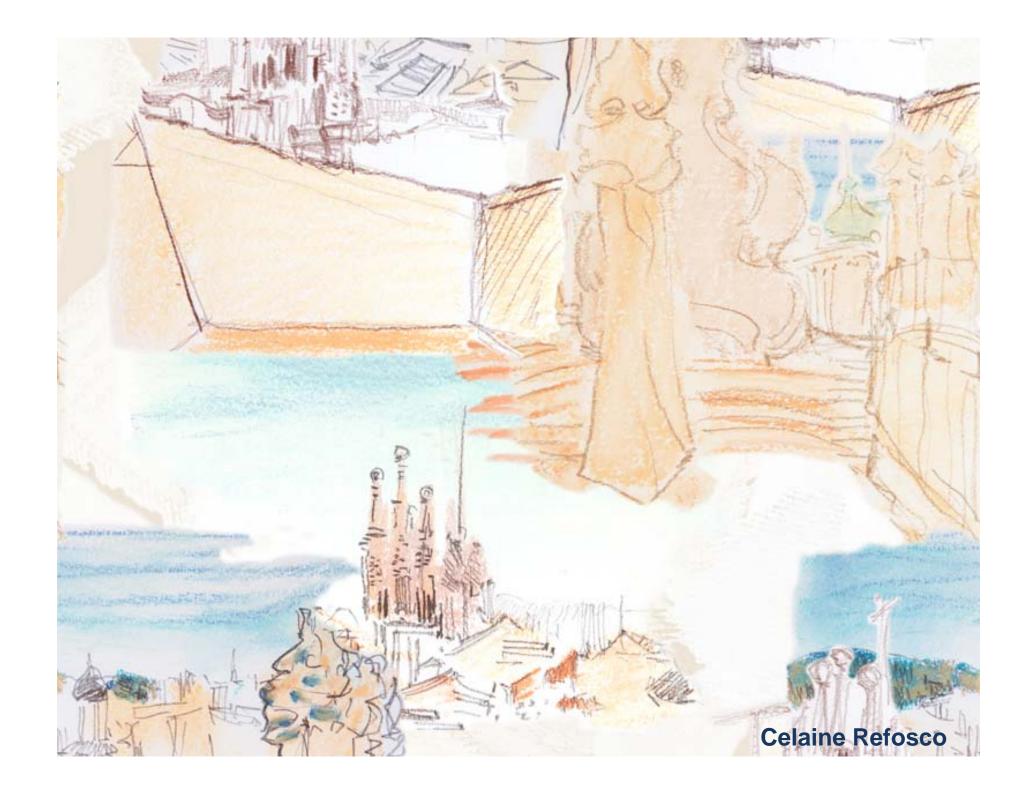

There is a continuous relationship between technical knowledge and aesthetic condition

To do so it needs some time

Time to think

You must live with the subjectivity

Only the combination of objectivity and subjectivity can add value

New techniques lead to better use of the implanted condition that often succumbs to lack of time, dedication, intelligence and attention

Thank you!
